M. E. CONFERENCE.

Second Day's Session a Busy One at Covington.

The second day's session of the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Covington yesterday was a busy one.

The morning was taken up in hearing reports from the Presiding Elders and Ministers. Presiding Elder Hill of Lexington District furnished an interesting report, covering several pages. What is known as the feed District of Kentucky is in this charge and in his report Presiding Elder Hill says:

"There have been a number of revivals in the District during the year. If the reports sent me by the Pastors are correct, there have been about 700 accessions to the Church and 707 conversions and baptisms. The work of building and completing houses of worship has gone on in the District. At present there are three new Churches being built in the District. At Wallacetown our people have erected and completed a neat Church. The house has cost about $1,200. I dedicated three new Churches in August, the first at Cartwright in Clinton county. The Church is worth $500 and is in the newly discovered oil field."

Another Church costing $1,000, the report says, was dedicated at Emanuel in Knox county, and another, known as "Cannon's Chapel," which is located in Jackson county. It cost, with material donated, about $1,000. In reporting on the dedication of Cannon's Chapel Rev. Hill says: "This Church is built in what is known as the feed District of Kentucky, but no man ever preached to a more orderly or attentive crowd than I did on that day."

Lexington District consists of 29 appointments and embraces 35 counties. Some of the appointments have as many as 10 preaching places, most of which are in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, and only accessible on horseback and sometimes only on foot. The Church at Somerset shows the most marked increase. There were 50 accessions to that Church during the year and there are 160 children attending the Sunday-school. In the entire District there were 707 conversions and baptisms during the year.

Lexington pays the highest salary—$3,000 a year—and from its congregation $4,200 was collected. The Church has 300 members. Of the 29 charges in the District only Somerset, College Hill, Nicholasville, London and Barboursville pay $500 or more. Some others pay over $300 salary, but the majority fall below $300 on salary.

On recommendation of Presiding Elder Hill Bishop Joyce appointed J. R. Howes of Ashland, E. B. Hill of Lexington, G. R. Frenger of Covington, T. B. Stratman of Lexington and W. F. Sheridan of Louisville a committee to take charge of the new Hospital at Middlesboro.

Bishop Joyce appointed Revs. Hill and Shepard to draft suitable resolutions on the death of Congressman Vincent Boreing, who was a lifelong member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

CAN'T DO WITHOUT HIM.

The Editor is Equal to all Occasions These Days.

A blustering, self-important gentleman walked into a barber shop at Peck, Mich., and wanted his hair cut.

He didn't want any talk, just a plain hair-cut, and he wanted it right away.

The modest and unpretentious old gentleman in the shop attempted to explain, but was roughly told to go ahead without a word.

After the job was finished the man who knew everything looked in the glass and was horrified at his appearance. He fairly stormed around, and indignantly asked the old gentleman if he called that a hair-cut.

The mild old man meekly replied: "I don't know. You must ask the barber. He'll be in presently. I am the Editor of the village paper and was waiting for a hair-cut myself, but you wouldn't give me a chance to explain."

There is more Cataract in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Cataract to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Cataract Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from ten drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75 cents. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A circular letter has been sent out regarding the convention of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association at Evansville, Ind., October 14th and 15th. "The aim and object of the Association," the circular says, "is the improving of the Ohio River, so that its navigation can be continuous and depended upon to serve the interests of all the people of the valley by affording cheap transportation. Concurred action and demand by the dwellers in the six great states bordering on the Ohio river to the National Congress, through an accredited organization capable of effective work, such as the Ohio Valley Improvement Association has by the history of the last eight years shown itself to be, will bring appropriations that will complete the work of improving the Ohio river from Pittsburgh to Cairo by the plan of movable locks and dams, to which the Government is committed, and which its engineers approve. It is the belief of the officers and members of the Association that the convention at Evansville will be the largest that has yet been held. Prominent men from all sections of the Ohio valley will be present and will deliver addresses. An effort is being made to get every member of the Rivers and Harbors Committee of Congress to attend, as well as every Congressman and Senator from the six states bordering on the Ohio river."

BELKNAP'S PLATFORM

Denounces Dominant Democratic Machine Rule.

APPEALS TO GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Patriotic Citizens Are Asked to Assist in Re-Establishing Kentucky—The Reign of Democratic Party With Machine Domination Is Condemned and Use of Pardon For Partisan Purposes Denounced.

The platform adopted by the Republican state convention is as follows:

The Republicans of Kentucky, in convention assembled, make the following declarations:

"First—We declare for the right of every qualified citizen to a free ballot and a fair count, and the right of voters to an honest and orderly election in every precinct in this state, and to secure these rights and the restoration of political and legal equality, we pledge ourselves to the enactment of such laws as will restore absolute electoral freedom.

"Second—We denounce the odious political machine rule now dominant in Kentucky, which destroys freedom, fattens enterprise, excludes capital, handicaps industry, discourages education and enables self-perpetuating bodies of political adventurers to control public affairs for private benefit, and encourages and protects abuse, contempt and bold violation of law.

We appeal for an aroused public sentiment among all ranks of citizenship against the continuation of these evils.

"Third—We condemn the reign of the Democratic party, hate and proscription, following the destruction under forms of law, of political liberty and equality, and especially deplore the fact that in this day of machine domination the courts of the state are appealed to, and have become too often the theater for the display of Democratic partisan activity, and for the upholding of political wrong and outrage.

"Fourth—We denounce assassination and lawlessness, whether in Servia or Kentucky, as destructive of civilization, and call upon the enlightened intelligence of the state through its legislative, executive and judicial agencies, to employ remedies to establish order and punish crime within our borders.

"We especially arraign the present state chief executive for so exercising the pardoning power as to subserve political and partisan purposes, with the certain effect of encouraging crime, by virtually rendering criminals of Democratic political faith immune from punishment.

"Fifth—We condemn the present administration in Kentucky for incompetency and grave impropriety in the conduct of public affairs, for preying upon and misappropriating public moneys, for laying tribute upon the legal pay of soldiers enlisted in the country's service, for the payment of unnecessary, unjust, exorbitant and illegal attorneys' fees, and we now demand such changes in the laws as will secure the state against similar wrongs in the future.

"Sixth—The present state administration has increased taxation of the people without corresponding increase in public benefits, and we believe and declare that the rate of taxation could be reduced to 45 cents, and that the revenue so produced, on present property valuations, will be adequate for all purposes of our government economically administered, and in addition a surplus therefrom could be accumulated in four years to build and pay for a state house suitable for public uses and commensurate with the dignity and wealth of the commonwealth.

"Seventh—We denounce the present system of management of the charitable and penal institutions of the state as being obsolete, inhuman and a reproach to our civilization. We condemn the carelessness and cruelty shown to have been repeatedly practiced in our asylums, and demand the passage of laws that will place these institutions under non-partisan management by which our helpless wards can be and will be protected against inhumanity and negligence, and their condition improved by the substitution of trained and capable superintendents and assistants for the brutal, inexperienced and incompetent employees appointed to their places as political reward.

"Eighth—We appeal to the united good citizenship of the state to aid in re-establishing Kentucky, a Kentucky, awakened, progressive and seeking the highest prosperity. Her commanding situation, her waterways, her resources and facilities for agriculture, manufacturing, mining and commerce demand wise laws, incorruptible and impartial courts and competent and fearless executive officers.

"Ninth—The Republicans now seek the co-operation and support of all good citizens, irrespective of past party connections, and pledge themselves in entering this campaign, to restore to the state respect for law, the enforcement of law, honest and economical government, should the people by their votes commit power to them.

"Tenth—We congratulate the people of the United States and its new possessions upon the unparalleled prosperity achieved under national Republican policies that have maintained the public honor, fostered industry, stimulated enterprise, extended American commerce, strengthened American influence and ennobled citizenship.

by giving security to labor and capital alike, and insuring to every man who works a standard of living and an expectation worthy of American civilization and civic sovereignty. We stand for the continuance of existing Republican financial and tariff policies.

"Eleventh—We express highest appreciation of the record that President Theodore Roosevelt has made in continuing the great work begun by William McKinley, and in himself dealing with the new problems that he has had to solve; in his handling of the Philippine question; in his firm management of the Venezuelan crisis; in his wise and courageous course with reference to the anthracite coal strike; in his honest efforts to secure justice to Cuba; in his zeal for the Panama canal; in his vigorous demand for official purity and honesty, and punishment of the corrupt and dishonest; in his resolute stand against the closing of Chinese ports to our trade; in the success achieved by his practical efforts to enforce the law against unlawful combinations, and in the encouragement he has given to the laying of a cable across the Pacific, which brings us into closer touch with the Philippines than we were with the Louisiana Territory, or with California when acquired. He has shown himself a strong executive, as he is an ideal citizen, and we heartily and enthusiastically are in favor of his nomination for the presidency in 1904."

"Twelfth—We denounce the odious political machine rule now dominant in Kentucky, which destroys freedom, fattens enterprise, excludes capital, handicaps industry, discourages education and enables self-perpetuating bodies of political adventurers to control public affairs for private benefit, and encourages and protects abuse, contempt and bold violation of law.

We appeal for an aroused public sentiment among all ranks of citizenship against the continuation of these evils.

"Thirteenth—We condemn the reign of the Democratic party, hate and proscription, following the destruction under forms of law, of political liberty and equality, and especially deplore the fact that in this day of machine domination the courts of the state are appealed to, and have become too often the theater for the display of Democratic partisan activity, and for the upholding of political wrong and outrage.

"Fourteenth—We denounce assassination and lawlessness, whether in Servia or Kentucky, as destructive of civilization, and call upon the enlightened intelligence of the state through its legislative, executive and judicial agencies, to employ remedies to establish order and punish crime within our borders.

"Thirteenth—We condemn the reign of the Democratic party, hate and proscription, following the destruction under forms of law, of political liberty and equality, and especially deplore the fact that in this day of machine domination the courts of the state are appealed to, and have become too often the theater for the display of Democratic partisan activity, and for the upholding of political wrong and outrage.

"Fourteenth—We denounce assassination and lawlessness, whether in Servia or Kentucky, as destructive of civilization, and call upon the enlightened intelligence of the state through its legislative, executive and judicial agencies, to employ remedies to establish order and punish crime within our borders.

"Fifteenth—We especially arraign the present state chief executive for so exercising the pardoning power as to subserve political and partisan purposes, with the certain effect of encouraging crime, by virtually rendering criminals of Democratic political faith immune from punishment.

"Sixteenth—We condemn the present administration in Kentucky for incompetency and grave impropriety in the conduct of public affairs, for preying upon and misappropriating public moneys, for laying tribute upon the legal pay of soldiers enlisted in the country's service, for the payment of unnecessary, unjust, exorbitant and illegal attorneys' fees, and we now demand such changes in the laws as will secure the state against similar wrongs in the future.

"Seventeenth—We denounce the present system of management of the charitable and penal institutions of the state as being obsolete, inhuman and a reproach to our civilization. We condemn the carelessness and cruelty shown to have been repeatedly practiced in our asylums, and demand the passage of laws that will place these institutions under non-partisan management by which our helpless wards can be and will be protected against inhumanity and negligence, and their condition improved by the substitution of trained and capable superintendents and assistants for the brutal, inexperienced and incompetent employees appointed to their places as political reward.

"Eighteenth—We appeal to the united good citizenship of the state to aid in re-establishing Kentucky, a Kentucky, awakened, progressive and seeking the highest prosperity. Her commanding situation, her waterways, her resources and facilities for agriculture, manufacturing, mining and commerce demand wise laws, incorruptible and impartial courts and competent and fearless executive officers.

"Nineteenth—The Republicans now seek the co-operation and support of all good citizens, irrespective of past party connections, and pledge themselves in entering this campaign, to restore to the state respect for law, the enforcement of law, honest and economical government, should the people by their votes commit power to them.

"Tenth—We congratulate the people of the United States and its new possessions upon the unparalleled prosperity achieved under national Republican policies that have maintained the public honor, fostered industry, stimulated enterprise, extended American commerce, strengthened American influence and ennobled citizenship.

by giving security to labor and capital alike, and insuring to every man who works a standard of living and an expectation worthy of American civilization and civic sovereignty. We stand for the continuance of existing Republican financial and tariff policies.

"Eleventh—We express highest appreciation of the record that President Theodore Roosevelt has made in continuing the great work begun by William McKinley, and in himself dealing with the new problems that he has had to solve; in his handling of the Philippine question; in his firm management of the Venezuelan crisis; in his wise and courageous course with reference to the anthracite coal strike; in his honest efforts to secure justice to Cuba; in his zeal for the Panama canal; in his vigorous demand for official purity and honesty, and punishment of the corrupt and dishonest; in his resolute stand against the closing of Chinese ports to our trade; in the success achieved by his practical efforts to enforce the law against unlawful combinations, and in the encouragement he has given to the laying of a cable across the Pacific, which brings us into closer touch with the Philippines than we were with the Louisiana Territory, or with California when acquired. He has shown himself a strong executive, as he is an ideal citizen, and we heartily and enthusiastically are in favor of his nomination for the presidency in 1904."

"Twelfth—We denounce the odious political machine rule now dominant in Kentucky, which destroys freedom,

fattens enterprise, excludes capital, handic

WAR REMINISCENCES!

Extracts From Private Diary of Late John Archdeacon.

Forty Years Ago Tomorrow Since the Battle of Chattanooga, Tenn., Began.

Forty years ago, Saturday and Sunday, the 19th and 20th of September, 1863, the struggle for the supremacy of Chattanooga, Tenn., was begun between General Bragg of the Confederate forces and General Rosecrans in command of the Federal forces. Rosecrans commenced a series of flank movements by the three corps of his Army against Chattanooga August 16th, which compelled Bragg to evacuate the city September 7th, '63. Rosecrans threw the left wing of his Army into the city on this day and commenced to concentrate his forces on the city, which had spread out towards Bragg's rear, thirty or forty miles South of the city, over mountains almost impassible by foot-soldiers, to say nothing of artillery and wagon trains that had to cut roads to get through these mountain forests. The left wing of the Army, under General Crittenden, had fairly good roads to maneuver over in keeping Bragg busy from interfering with the concentration of McCook and Thomas, who were making desperate efforts to concentrate on Crittenden's Corps who was then at Lee and Gordon's Mills some twelve miles from Chattanooga, marching and counter-marching in every direction to avoid Bragg, and at the same time keeping the city in his rear out of Bragg's grasp until the remaining Corps of the Army could join him.

Bragg had given repeated orders to his Corps commanders to crush Crittenden and go into the city and force the remainder of Rosecrans's Army into the mountains where they could be destroyed in detail. These orders miscarried by some providential occurrence until September 18th, when in person he took charge of the crushing game against Crittenden and threw the right wing of his Army over the Chickamauga river in the night of the 18th, only to find at the break of day he was facing the "Rock of Chickamauga," General Thomas, who had arrived on the battlefield at the same hour of Bragg with his Corps.

Captain John H. Archdeacon briefly explains what took place on the 19th in his private diary carried in his pocket at the time:

September 19th—At 7 a. m. heavy firing commenced on our left. At 11 o'clock the Brigade with Division Palmers moved down the Rossville road about one mile toward Chattanooga and forward in line of battle.

(Note by writer of this article: If you have never stood in line of battle waiting the word "Fire," mortal man cannot describe the impulse of the men at the moment. Blood seems turned to water and the kidneys need no diuretic. Are the men alive or standing as statues without feelings? Do they think of home, mother, brother, sister or sweetheart at this supreme moment? The firing comes nearer, in volleys of regiments and pells of marching artillery, shaking the earth beneath your feet. Officers stand at your back in low tones of encouragement saying, "Hold your fire, boys, and do not fire until the word is given, and then fire low.") Moving forward through the woods, we soon are engaged with the enemy for three hours. Though hard pressed we hold our ground until Grose's Brigade on our right gave way and we were thrown into confusion and retired about 200 yards, when we rallied and held our position. Regiment Second Kentucky Infantry lost about 92 men today.

September 20th—The battle began this morning about 9 o'clock. Early in the morning we threw up a light breastwork of logs, behind which we repulsed every charge made by the enemy, with severe losses to them and no loss to speak of to us. About 6 p. m. we covered the retreat of the Army on the Rossville road into Chattanooga.

Through the efforts of Captain Hutchins and Archdeacon the following boys were enlisted in Company D of the Second Kentucky from this city and were mustered into service June 11th, 1861—M. C. Hutchins, John H. Archdeacon, Thomas Kearns, Philip Fust, Edwin Dufre, James M. Poe, William H. Squires, James Parker, Reuben A. Darnall, G. M. Williams, Robert H. Crane, Charles W. Love, Henry Wyand and David Beldon Thomas.

Captain J. W. Miller, the war correspondent of The Cincinnati Commercial, whom it is said wrote the most accurate description of the Chickamauga battle of any correspondent on the field, has this to say in that letter of the Second Kentucky:

Moving forward to our foremost line of battle, I struck upon Palmers Division holding a slight hill, on the crest of which they had erected a palisade of logs and rails. Over this a dozen cannon were peering, and men stood in lengthened groups listening to the straggling skirmish fire which had again broken out. The Second Kentucky was there, and while I was shaking hands with old friends the firing in front swelled up until the crack of a hundred rifles startled the air. The soldiers sprang to their palisade without a word and rested their guns calmly across it. Old soldiers and true soldiers, they needed no command to warn them to their post. The thunder of battle deepened, and for one hour there was no pause. The musketry was furious, drowning the thunderous throb of a half dozen of our batteries in fierce action. Brannan, Baird, Negley, Reynolds, Johnson and Palmers Divisions were fighting in deadly conflict the enemy.

THE KOREAN TWINS.

Two Bright Little Boys Inseparably United Seen in Circus.

The greatest anatomical curiosity now in existence is undoubtedly the Korean twins. They are two perfectly formed boys united by a cartilaginous ligament about the size of an arm of one of them and some six or seven inches long. The ligament comes from the left breast of one of the boys to the right breast of the other. It is extremely elastic and by standing with their arms thrown over the shoulders of each other they are enabled to walk, run around and play very much the same as other boys of their age who are not thus bound inseparably together. They are almost exact counterparts of the famous Siamese twins and united in precisely the same manner with this one exception—the ligament uniting the Siamese twins proceeded from the left side of one to the right side of the other and they were compelled to occupy this relative position one to the other throughout their entire lives. It may be remembered that they married and lived to a good old age on the farms to which they retired several years before their death in the state of North Carolina.

The Korean twins were born in a little village some five miles North of the rather important town of Kong Tsui, which is some fifty miles above the coast of the Japanese sea on the Keum-Kang river in Korea. They were the first twins of their kind to be born in that part of the world and naturally excited intense curiosity. They were placed upon exhibition at a very early age and were exhibited throughout Korea, Japan, China, Australia, India and thence were taken to Europe, where they remained for some three years and later brought to this country. Their names are Liao Tuan Chen and Liao Sim Chen. The boys are remarkably bright and intelligent and extremely agreeable little chaps to look upon in addition to being the greatest natural marvels now living, and are in the collection of living human curiosities which will come here with the Barnum & Bailey Show on Wednesday, October 7th, for one performance, at 2 p.m.
